This is a no-frills registration. Morning and afternoon teas will be available but you need to bring your own lunch.

We are printing only enough symposium books for the people who registered before 31 August plus very few spares. When you get to the symposium there may be a book available for an extra cost.

Demonstrations are on Friday and Saturday 9am to 5pm and Sunday 9am to 12noon. Look at <https://symposium2018.sawg.org.nz/> to read about the demonstrators, their demonstrations and see the symposium programme. A highlight is the auction of woodturning on the Saturday at 7pm.

The Instant Gallery with more than 100 items of woodturning made by our demonstrators and symposium participants will be there for you to see. So feel free to bring friends and family to that part of the symposium.

Free entry to the Trade Hall with a wonderful array of tools, some with good discount prices.
